

1. Entering into the Apparatus

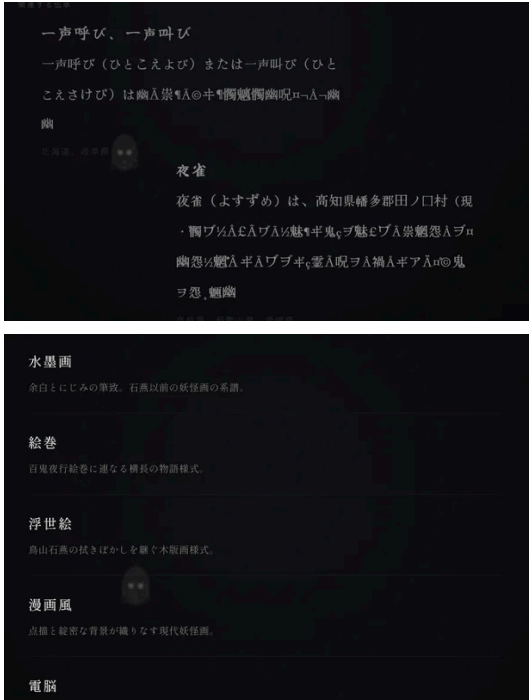

Users log in to the system using a smartphone-based amulet modeled after traditional Japanese talismans.

2. Articulating an Inexplicable Experience

Participants articulate an experience they could not readily explain: when and where it occurred, what they sensed, and what feeling remained.

3. Retrieving Historical Precedents and Choosing a Form

The apparatus retrieves related accounts from the Nichibunken Yōkai Database and presents them as historical reference forms for naming the participant's experience.

Generating...

During rendering, we use shaders to create a smoky effect, making the loading time appear as if the yokai is taking shape.

4. Naming, Visualizing, and Carrying It Away

The generated yokai are printed as “charms” using a thermal printer and handed out to participants

※¹Since folklore about supernatural beings includes not only specific creatures but also “paranormal phenomena,” this distinction is important.
